CANDIDIASIS

MORE OF A
PROBLEM THAN YOU THINK

" CRAVING SUGAR ?"

The sugar cravings might not be low resolve on your part - it might be the Candida controlling you!

NUTRITIONAL SUPPORT – REBALANCING

Traditionally when treating candida (using herbs as well) the client can experience what is called a “die off” reaction. This is greatly reduced using the Bicom but, the following guidelines help considerably and in most cases the “die off” reactions are minimised if not eliminated.

DIET:

Avoiding “white” foods, minimal grains (Spelt or Kamut ok), no processed meats, dairy (too congestive), alcohol, soft drinks, sugar and caffeine. Include lots of organic vegetables, meats. Drink plenty of clean water (filtered tap and spring water).

COPING WITH DIE-OFF

In addition to Bicom detox programs

- Stock up with lots of organic, low-starch vegetables, small amounts of meats and nonglutinous grains
- Buy some chicory coffee or herbal teas like dandelion root and nettle leaf
- Continue to take a good detox supplement like Candidate or NAC With Molybdenum & Selenium

WHAT TO DO - AND WHY

Candida overgrowth is a big problem and results in a complex list of symptoms. Here are some of the causes, try to remove as many of them as possible. Antibiotics can destroy the good bacteria in the gut built up over many years, this can cause candida to bloom. If you have thrush then it is because candida is out of control. Reduce sugar of all kinds and good probiotics are essential.
